SOUTH BRUNSWICK TOWNSHIP CELEBRATES LOCAL RESIDENT'S 100TH BIRTHDAY

SOUTH BRUNSWICK, NJ (AUGUST 20). South Brunswick Township is proud to honor and celebrate a remarkable milestone as longtime resident Shen Silvey turns 100 years old.

Family and township officials joined together on August 19, 2025 to recognize Mrs. Silvey's century of life, love, and contributions to the community. To mark the occasion, the South Brunswick Office on Aging helped make the day festive with special touches to honor Mrs. Silvey.

The Township first learned of Mrs. Silvey's milestone thanks to Charlie "Bud" Reeves from Republic Services who shared the news of her upcoming 100th birthday. His thoughtful notice helped ensure the Township could celebrate this special occasion in a meaningful way.

Born in 1925, Mrs. Silvey has witnessed a century of history, growth, and change, all while remaining a beloved part of the South Brunswick community. She raised a family, built lifelong friendships, and has been a source of wisdom and inspiration to those who know her.

"Reaching 100 years old is a truly extraordinary accomplishment," said Mayor Charlie Carley. "We are honored to celebrate Mrs. Silvey's life and to recognize the impact she has had on our community and beyond."

"This is such a wonderful milestone, and we were honored to share in the celebration," said Dawn Neglia, Director of South Brunswick Office on Aging. "Recognizing our residents and bringing joy to these special moments is at the heart of what we do."

The Township extends its heartfelt congratulations to Mrs. Silvey on this milestone birthday and wishes many more years of health, happiness, and cherished memories.
